ANOTHER GOOD SHOW BILLED AT THE KEITH TOMORROW NIGHT.

The new dictionaries in defining pep undoubtedly will say, "see any Fanchon and Marco revue," and probably will refer specially to "The Satires of 1920," which will be the attraction at the Keith Theatre Wednesday night, November 3rd, coming direct from the Broadway Theatre Denver.

Pep is the only hold-over from--Let's Go--the record smashing hit of last year which these Western stars took east for a run of 45 weeks. In fact, they have put pep on the pep and this coupled to an unique idea, the production of a plot in a revue, has created an irresistible combination.

Fanchon, the fascinating and the inimitable Marco, the dancers par excellence of the modern stage, give new and wonderful examples of their art, one sinuous number to the strains of Marco's violin being the epitome of grace.

The plot deals with the efforts of a Texas oil king who fancies himself a movie magnate, to produce a feature film. There is a wealth of hilarity in the situations, the efforts of five comedians being required to handle it. These famous fun makers are Lloyd and Wells, Arthur West, Al Wohlman and John Sheehan.

Other prominent members of the cast include the prima donna, Miss Eva Clark, Muriel Stryker, Daisy DeWitte and Lucille Harmon.

The girls, a collection of California maidens, youthful, pretty and shapely in gasp-producing apparel, are a big feature.

The book of the offering was written by Jean Hayes, whose clever pen added so greatly to the success of Zeigfeld's Follies, the smooth lyrics and music were written by Fanchon and Marco, and the gorgeous costumes, those worn in the fashion parade, being particularly effective, were designed by Lester of Chicago.

Miss Fern Dolph returned to Kearney yesterday after spending the week end with her parents.

Mrs. Roscoe Zimmer, of Sidney, spent Saturday in the city visiting relatives. She was accompanied home by Miss Isabella Thayer.

MRS. AMY E. VOTAW.

Amy E. Beede was born May 22, 1829, near Atwater, Ohio, and departed this life October 18, 1920, near Wellfleet, Nebr., aged 91 years, four months and 26 days.

She was left an orphan at a tender age and her childhood was rather sorrowful as the family with whom she lived were very unkind.

She was married August 22, 1851, to Abner Votaw, near Salem, Ohio, where they lived for two years after their marriage. The family then moved to Illinois and to Iowa, thence back to Illinois and in 1885 to Lincoln County, Nebr., where the father died December 14, 1894, and the mother more than 25 years later, Oct. 18, 1920.

Ten children were born to this union--Mrs. Ella Willis of Wellfleet, Nebr.; Walter B. Votaw of Maywood; Frank A. Votaw of Wellfleet; Olive E. Votaw, who died in infancy; William B. Votaw of Lincoln; Eli B. Votaw of Wellfleet; Homer G. Votaw of Denver, Colo.; Horace E. Votaw of Hastings, Nebr.; Herbert P. Votaw of Denver, Colo.; and Gertrude Shear of Davis Creek, Calif.

It was the privilege of all the children, except Gertrude to be with the dear mother during her last illness.

Besides her children she had thirty grand children, twenty-six of whom survive and eleven great grandchildren, ten of whom are living.

Mother Votaw was a life-long member of the Society of Friends. She was an ardent abolitionist in slavery times, and an earnest advocate of prohibition and woman suffrage. All of these reforms she lived to see supported by law.

To children and friends she was devoted and self-sacrificing. Hers was a sincere and practical religion and the commendation for the loving wife mother and friend will be "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Funeral services were held at the old Votaw homestead, about eighteen miles north of Maywood Wednesday at eleven o'clock conducted by Rev. Stevens of North Platte, and the remains laid to rest beside the husband in the Wellfleet cemetery.

Fountain pens and ink, also the famous Eversharp pencils, $1.50 up at Clinton, the Jeweler.
